In-house trade fair with more than 200 participants

The Hess Group's in-house trade fair took place in Burbach-Wahlbach, Germany on 19 and 20 June. More than 200 visitors, mostly from the concrete block and concrete pipe industry, came to the globally operative company's head office.

As in previous years, multi-language guided tours through the production halls were offered, where an extensive range of machines and plants were presented.

The largest exhibited concrete block making machine, an RH 2000-2 MVA, was the main attraction in the machine exhibition. It was possible to demonstrate the complete functionality live in no-load operation. The visitors were particularly interested in the new oil-bath vibrator. Due to the use of a closed system with an oil bath instead of the previous usual grease lubrication, this vibrator can be used in future almost completely maintenance-free. Since the Hess Group has subjected the new oil-bath vibrator to an extensive test period, it gives all customers a warranty of 2 years on this system.

Further concrete block making machines and plants in various sizes were on display. The visitors were able to get information on the Hess Group's broad range of plants, from a small RH 500 A up to a further RH 2000-2 MVA.

Various packet assemblers, a new Colormix plant, a stone milling machine and HMB concrete block moulds rounded off the exhibition of Hess concrete block making plants. In addition, the latest version of an SM 2250 planetary mixer was presented as well as a spinning mould by Schlosser-Pfeifer from the concrete pipe sector and a back tilting table for the production of porous concrete from Hess AAC's product range.

All of the machines and plants exhibited had already been sold in advance – the signs on the respective machines bore witness to the company's international sales activities, which were also reflected in the visitors.
